

Program Outcomes, highlighting Semester-I only

- CC1T:-
- Unit-1: Definition of Anthropology & its aim, scope & subdiscipline .
- Aim, scope & history of Physical Anthropology & its relationship with other discipline.
- Application of Biological Anthropology in human welfare & development.
- Unit-2: Discussion on different evolutionary theories of understand human evolution pre 19th & post 19th century.
- Unit-3: Understanding non-human primates in relation to human evolution through classification, characteristics, comparative anatomy & behaviour of human & non-human primate in Biological Anthropology.
- Unit-4: To know Race, Racism & different classification of Race through world & Indian perspective.
- C1P: To analyze the quantitative, qualitative measurement & observation of living human, with the help of the Anthropometric instrument.

Program Outcomes, highlighting Semester-I only

- CC2T:-
- Unit-1: Definition , Aim & scope , history of Social-cultural Anthropology & its relation to other discipline.
- Unit-2: Basic idea of society & culture, groups & institutions.
- Unit-3: To know about social system & social institution as well as correlation of different social institutions.
- Unit-4: Understanding the basic ideas of social institutions like as Family, Marriage, Kinship etc. Their definition, types & functions.

- C2P: To learn about the different qualitative method ethics & application of social cultural Anthropology in the field.

Course Outcomes highlighting Semester-I only

- CC1: Emergence of Physical Anthropology as a discipline of Anthropology and the application of physical /biological anthropology knowledge on human welfare and development such as eradication of racial conflict, control of genetic disease etc best on racial classification.
- CC2: Understanding of different society and culture, social institution, social norm, values, tradition, believe etc and cross-cultural study of social cultural behaviour regarding social institution. Application of different methods and techniques for data collection related to human behaviour for justifying human as social-cultural being.